米国政府もクラウドへ - 関係機関向けサービス購入サイト『Apps.gov』開設

NASAの同センターで会見を行った連邦CIO(最高情報責任者)のVivek Kundra氏は政府機関のデータセンター運営にかかるコストが2000年から2006年で倍増するなど、ITインフラ維持にかかるコストが急増していることを指摘。特に連邦IT予算760億ドルのうち、維持費だけで190億ドルを占める状況を問題視し、教育や医療よりもインフラ展開における問題解決が重要と説明している。その解決策の1つがクラウドコンピューティングであり、最終的に入手から構築、展開までの過程をシンプルにすることが可能になるという。こうした仕組みを各政府機関に対して提供する新サービスをGeneral Services Administration (GSA)主導で運営するのが「Apps.gov」となる。

GSA SmartPay@

GSA SmartPay®

The GSA SmartPay® 2 program provides charge cards to U.S. government agencies/departments, as well as tribal governments, through master contracts that are negotiated with major national banks. There are currently over 350 agencies/organizations participating in the program spending $30 billion annually, through 100 million transactions on over three million cards.

In June 2007, the Office of Charge Card Management awarded the GSA SmartPay® 2 master contracts to Citibank, JP Morgan Chase, and U.S. Bank. Through these contracts, agencies can obtain a number of different types of charge card products and services to support their mission needs, including:

- Purchase Cards: Purchasing general supplies and services;
- Travel Cards: Travel expenses related to official government travel (airline, hotel, meals, incidentals);
- Fleet Cards: Fuel and supplies for government vehicles; and
- Integrated Cards: Two or more business lines (card types) whose processes are integrated into one card.

Most agencies have transitioned to the new GSA SmartPay 2 cards on November 29, 2008; however, DHS (purchase only) will continue to use the GSA SmartPay 1 charge cards until they transition in June 2009.

Qualified agencies/organizations that are interested in obtaining charge card services can issue a task order under the master contract, and receive offers from the charge card providers.
