

G. Agriculture, forestry and fishery workers

This group comprises individuals engaged in the work of cultivating and harvesting farm crops, rearing silkworms, livestock, poultry and other animals, growing, felling and transporting timber, and capturing, harvesting or farming fishery products (including amphibians), and other work similar to agriculture, forestry and fisheries, as well as work related to these.

46 Agriculture workers

This group comprises individuals engaged in the work of cultivating and harvesting farm crops, rearing silkworms, collecting cocoons, producing silkworm eggs, rearing livestock, poultry and other animals (except fishery products), and other work similar to agriculture as well as work related to these.

461 Crop farming workers

This group comprises individuals engaged in the work such as cultivating and harvesting cereal crops, vegetables, fruits and other crops.

462 Livestock farm workers

This group comprises individuals engaged in the work such as rearing, breeding, shearing and milking livestock, rearing poultry and incubating eggs, rearing silkworms, collecting cocoons and producing silkworm eggs, and other work similar to these. Individuals engaged in the work of rearing pets, and rearing livestock or poultry in zoos, circuses, hospitals, research laboratories, etc., are also included.

463 Landscape gardeners, nursery workers

This group comprises individuals engaged in the work of planting and tending trees and shrubs, and landscaping gardens.

469 Other agricultural workers

This group comprises individuals engaged in agriculture and work similar to agriculture not included in Unit Groups [461-463].

47 Forestry workers

This group comprises individuals engaged in the work of raising forest trees, saplings and seeds, felling, transportation, disposal and other work, as well as charcoal and firewood making in forest areas.

471 Forest nursery workers

This group comprises individuals engaged in the work of planting forest saplings, preparing ground as well as shrub clearing and other care to ensure the sound growth of forest trees.

472 Tree-felling, logging, and collecting workers

This group comprises individuals engaged in the work of felling trees, logging timber (measuring, lopping, barking), collecting felled timber, and transporting to timber stockpiles.

However, individuals engaged in sawing work and felling for charcoal and firewood are not included.

479 Other forestry workers

This group comprises individuals engaged in forestry and work similar to forestry that is not included in Unit Groups [471-472].

48 Fishery workers

This group comprises individuals engaged in the work of catching naturally-bred fishery products (including amphibians) in seas, rivers, lakes and other water areas, the work of artificially rearing and harvesting fishery products, and other fishery work, and other work similar to fisheries as well as work related to these.

481 Fishery workers

This group comprises individuals engaged in the work of catching fishery products (except shellfish) on the ocean surface, in the sea and in inland waters. Deckhands, engine department crew and fishing divers who travel in fishing boats and are engaged in fishery work are also included.

However, captains, navigation officers, chief engineers and engineers of fishing boats are classified under Unit Group [482].

482 Ships' captains, navigation officers, chief engineers, engineers (fishing boats)

This group comprises individuals engaged in the operation and navigation of fishing boats, preservation of ships' bodies, and the driving and maintenance of engines, as well as being engaged in fishery work.

However, captains, navigation officers, chief engineers and engineers of mother ships, cannery ships, fish catch transport ships, fishery guidance ships, fishery survey ships, fishery training ships and fishery control ships are classified under Unit Groups [621-623].

483 Seaweed and shellfish harvesting workers

This group comprises individuals engaged in the work of harvesting natural seaweed and shellfish.

484 Aquaculture workers

This group comprises individuals engaged in the work of cultivating and harvesting fishery products in both seawater and freshwater.

489 Other fishery workers

This group comprises individuals engaged in fisheries or work similar to fisheries that is not included in Unit Groups [481-484].