

List of Contributors

Alex Bello Brillantes Jr., PhD University of Hawaii, is Professor of Public Administration, University of the Philippines National College of Public Administration and Governance. He was Commissioner of the Commission on Higher Education of the Philippines and Executive Director of the Local Government Academy. He has been consultant for several international institutions including the Asian Development Bank, World Bank and United Nations Development Program. He was visiting professor at the Kobe University, Graduate Institute for Policy Studies and Meiji University in Japan, among others. He has written three books including Innovations and Excellence in Local Governments. He received the International Publications Award from the University of the Philippines for several years up to 2018.

E-Mail: abbrillantes@up.edu.ph

Karl Emmanuel V. Ruiz, is a Librarian in the University of the Philippines National College of Public Administration and Governance. He finished Bachelor of Library and Information Science in the University of Santo Tomas, Manila, Philippines. He is currently taking up Master of Library and Information Science in the School of Library and Information Studies, University of the Philippines-Diliman.

E-Mail: karlemmanuel4@gmail.com

Veiko Lember is currently Visiting Professor, Public Governance Institute, KU Leuven, Belgium and has been a senior research fellow, Ragnar Nurkse Department of Innovation and Governance, Tallinn University of Technology, Estonia from 2011. He received his PhD in Public Administration, Tallinn University of Technology, Estonia. His specialization is in public administration and innovation policy. He contributed for several books and journal articles. Among them is Public Procurement, Innovation and Policy: International Perspectives. Heidelberg: Springer (co-authorship).

E-mail: veiko.lember@taltech.ee

Piret Tõnurist is currently a Policy Analyst for OECD, France and Research fellow, Ragnar Nurkse Department of Innovation and Governance, Tallinn University of Technology, Estonia. She received her PhD in Technology Governance, Tallinn University of Technology, Estonia. Her specialization is in public sector innovation and innovation policy. She contributed for several books and journals, her most recent article is

The Potential Impacts of Digital Technologies on Co-Production and Co-Creation. Public Management Review, 2019 (co-authorship).

E-mail: piret.tonurist@taltech.ee

Rainer Kattel is currently a professor at Institute for Innovation and Public Purpose,

UCL, and an adjunct professor at Ragnar Nurkse School of Innovation and Governance, Tallinn University of Technology. He received his PhD in Public Administration in Tartu University, Estonia. His research interests include various aspects of innovation policy, technology governance and public-sector innovation. He contributed for several books and journal articles. Among them is Innovation Bureaucracy. New Haven: Yale (co-authorship).

E-mail: r.kattel@ucl.ac.uk

Heungsuk Choi is a Professor of College of Political Science and Economics, Korea University. He received his Ph.D. from Syracuse University in 1993. His particular research foci are Local Governance, Public Management, Electronic Government and R&D Policy. He has been Dean of the Graduate School of Korea University from March 2019 and was President of Korean Association for Public Administration in 2017. He has contributed several articles and among them are “An Exploratory Analysis of Collective Responsibility and its Determinants: Focusing on South Korea’s Public Officials.” and “A Grounded Theory Analysis on the Residents’ Perception and Experience of Community Support Programs in the Han River Basin” in 2018.

E-mail: hschoi@korea.ac.kr

Vu Thanh Van is Senior Lecturer and Director of International Cooperation Department at the Academy of Journalism and Communication (AJC), Vietnam. He had been through various management positions, including deputy dean of International Relations Faculty and deputy director of Research Management at AJC since 2013. His specialization is journalism. He has published a number of articles and a book entitled “International Communications”. He also edited some publications, i.e. “Policy communication: Vietnam and Korea’s experiences” (2017), “Public Policy communication and social consensus” (2018) and “Policy communication and public reception literacy” (2019).

E-mail: vuthanhvan@ajc.edu.vn

Trilochan Pokharel is Director of Studies, Research and Consulting Service Department, Nepal Administrative Staff College, Nepal. He received his MPhil degree from Tribhuvan University, Kathmandu. He is visiting faculty for “Democracy and Inclusive Governance” of Nepal Open University and provides guest lecture to Faculty of Economics, Yamaguchi University, Japan. He served as Faculty Associate at Central Department of Population Studies, Nepal from April 2008 to September 2010 and a lecturer at Pokhara University, Nepal from April 2005 to February 2008. He wrote “Nepal National Governance Survey 2017/2018”, “Quality of Public Service in Nepal- Further Analysis of Nepal National Governance Survey 2017/ 18”, and “Political Economy Analysis of Post-earthquake Reconstruction in Nepal” in 2018 published by Nepal Administrative Staff College, as a lead author. He also served as Deputy Team Leader in “Federalism Capacity Needs Assessments”, a survey carried out to map the existing capacity of Provincial and Local Government to implement federalism.

E-mail: trilochan.pokharel@nasc.org.np

Achala Dahal is Director of Studies at Nepal Administrative Staff College. She received her MPhil from Tribhuvan University, Nepal. She was Operation Manager at Eco Visions Pvt Limited, October 2009 to August 2012 and a faculty of management at Himalayan White House College, 2010 to June 2012. She wrote “Public Sector Integrity in Nepal - Further Analysis of Nepal National Governance Survey 2017/18” and “Rethinking Public Service in Nepal: The End-user Perspective in 14th South Asian Management Forum, 2017” published by Nepal Administrative Staff College, as a co-author.
E-mail: achaladahal@nasc.org.np

Guochun Wu is Associate Professor of the Institute of Geophysics, China Earthquake Administration. She received a Doctor Degree of sociology from Nagoya University. Her research focuses on disaster sociology, disaster prevention and reduction policy, and social survey. She has contributed books and papers, among them, are “Disaster Relief Sociology Research” in 2014, “Arrival Point of disaster relief NGOs in China” in 2017, “Mapping Individuals’ Earthquake Preparedness in China” in 2018.
E-mail: guochunwu@cea-igp.ac.cn

Achakorn Wongpreedee is Associate Professor in Public Administration at National Institute of Development Administration (NIDA), Thailand. He received his Ph.D. from Kyoto University, Japan and Chulalongkorn University, Thailand. He was also visiting researcher at Institute of Southeast Asian Studies (ISEAS), Singapore (2016) and visiting researcher at the Center for Southeast Asia Studies, Northern Illinois University, USA (2011), and visiting scholar at Institute for Comparative Studies in Local Governance, GRIPS, Japan (2009). His research publication articles includes “Fiscal Decentralization in Comparative Perspective: Analysis of the Intergovernmental Systems in Indonesia and Thailand appeared in Journal of Comparative Policy Analysis: Research and Practice”.
E-mail: achakornl@gmail.com

Maria Fe Villamejor-Mendoza is Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy, and former Dean (2013-2019) of the National College of Public Administration and Governance (NCPAG), University of the Philippines. She received her Doctor of Public Administration from the University of the Philippines. Her specializations include democratic governance, public corporate governance, public-private partnerships (PPPs) and regulatory governance. She has published a number of books, book chapter, journal articles, policy monographs and working paper series on such topics as Influencing Public Policy, Corporate Governance, and Equity and Fairness in Public-Private Partnerships.
E-mail: fevmendo@yahoo.com; mvmendoza@up.edu.ph

Matsunami Jun is Professor of Graduate School of International Cooperation Studies, Kobe University, Japan. He received his Ph.D. degree from Kyoto University, Japan. His particular research focus are political science and comparison of local government. Before moving to Kobe, he was an Associate Professor of Osaka Gakuin University, Japan. He has contributed several books and among them are “Evaluation in Public-Sector Reform: Concepts and Practice in International Perspective” in 2003 and “Global Encyclopedia of Public Administration, Public Policy, and Governance” in 2018.

E-mail: matsunam@kobe-u.ac.jp